The Law School

W.H. Hitchler

Follow this and additional works at: https://ideas.dickinsonlaw.psu.edu/dlra

Recommended Citation

Available at: https://ideas.dickinsonlaw.psu.edu/dlra/vol36/iss2/5

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Law Reviews at Dickinson Law IDEAS. It has been accepted for inclusion in Dickinson Law Review by an authorized editor of Dickinson Law IDEAS. For more information, please contact lja10@psu.edu.
Notes

THE LAW SCHOOL

One hundred and sixty-five students enrolled in the law school this year. Thirty-four are Seniors; forty-four are Middlers; fifty-eight are Juniors; and twenty-nine are elective students taking work in the law school and in the college.

Of the one hundred and thirty-six students, other than electives, one hundred and seventeen are college graduates representing thirty-three different colleges. Two others have had four years of college training and have completed all the work required for a degree; two have had three years college work and will receive their college degrees upon completion of the first year's law work; four have had one year's work; and eleven have no college credits.

Thirty-seven counties and eighty-two Pennsylvania towns and cities are represented. Dauphin County has the largest representation, nineteen; Luzerne is second with seventeen; and Lackawanna is third with fourteen. Of the towns and cities, Harrisburg has the largest representation, seventeen; Altoona and Reading are each represented by nine students, and Philadelphia by eight.

There are twenty-six graduates of Dickinson College enrolled and twenty-nine students of the college are taking courses in the law school. Nineteen Pennsylvania colleges and fourteen other colleges are represented by graduates.

W. H. HITCHLER.