DEDICATION

On October 19, 1974, Edgar I. King was invested as the fifth Dean of the Dickinson School of Law. Prior to that time he served the law school as a professor from 1962 until 1967 and as Assistant Dean from 1967 until his investiture. While serving in those capacities he earned the respect and admiration of virtually every student who came to know him. In selecting Dr. King as Dean, the Board of Trustees has chosen a learned and well respected scholar whose eminent qualifications are consistent with the best traditions of Pennsylvania's oldest law school. In recognition of his many past contributions to the Dickinson School of Law and in anticipation of continued achievements, it is with great pride and pleasure that the staff of the Dickinson Law Review welcomes Dr. King as Dean and dedicates this issue to an excellent teacher and friend, Edgar Irwin King.
